organic office furniture

Introducing Components.

Organic office furniture that lets your office take shape.

Say goodbye to the stale office filled with gray walls and stationary cubicles. Now say hello to Components, where the office comes to life through a combination of organic shapes, contemporary materials and mobile workstations. Components active design allows you to easily configure pieces from an open meeting area to a quiet, single office. Complete the personality of your working space through colorful or natural finishes and unique elements. Components organic office furniture combines high style with modern function. You'll never see so many heads turn at once.

Build from the ground up.

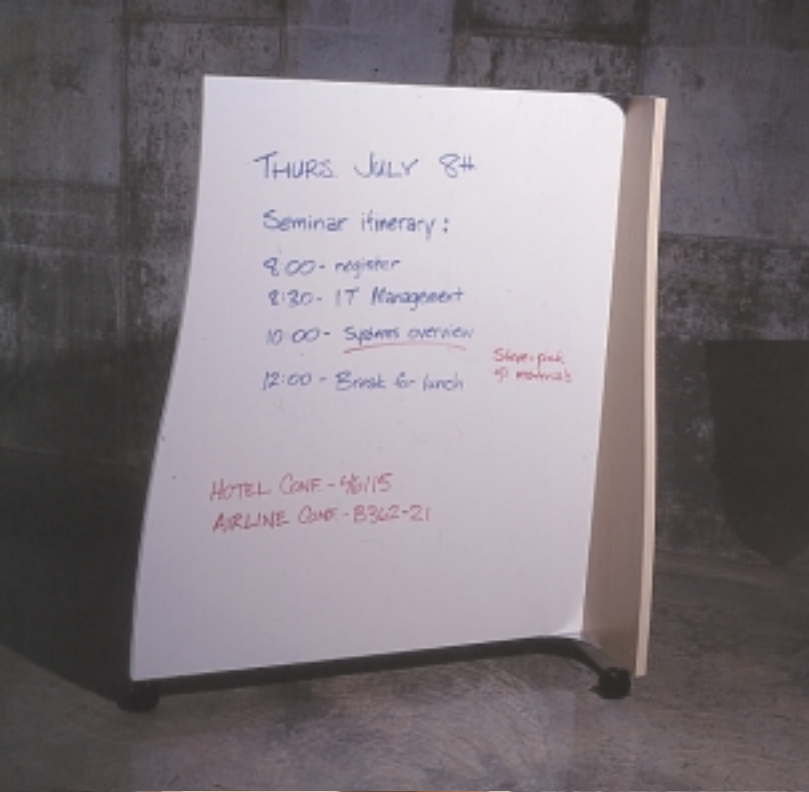

Forms that function.

Components gives you the freedom to create an interior architecture that works with your changing office needs. First decide on the best support for your pieces. For example, monitor carts with mobile support allow users to save worksurface space and the liberty to position their monitor anywhere. Move on up to worksurfaces and consider how shapes can harmonize into larger or smaller pieces. File space is readily available to everyone with mobile storage units. The outcome is an office environment that is flexible, unique and fun.

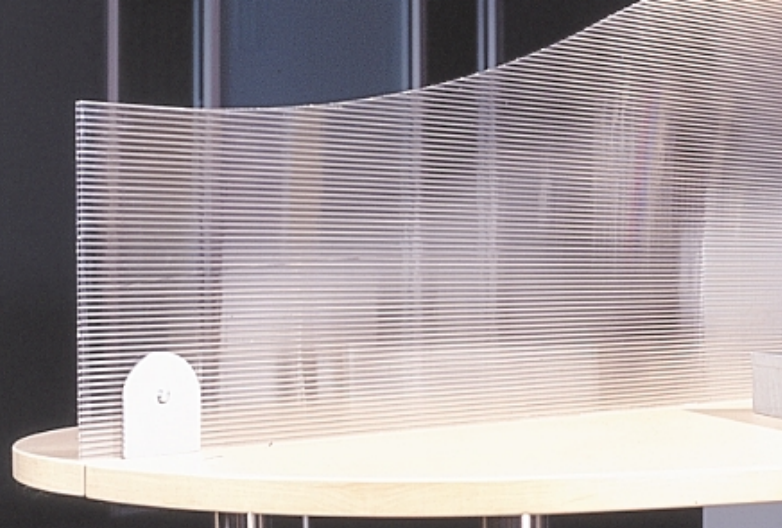

It's all in the details.

Details that make a difference.

Components has been inspired by the natural affinity between materials including steel, wood, glass and plastics. These materials allow for greater pliability in designing such kinetic pieces as the cord management spine and snaking door handles. Aluminum provides needed strength and unmatched elegance for privacy screens with multiple perforated designs. The timeless presence and grain of wood adds a true finishing touch to any piece. Plastic dual wheel carpet casters with locking mechanisms keep pieces on the move or holding their own. These meticulously crafted details will look sharp the first day on the job and year after year.

The Components line offers a variety of structural elements for the office. It includes:

- Worksurfaces
- Support
- Tall Storage
- Accessories
- Lower Storage
- Upper Storage
- Privacy

Use Components to create an interior architecture for your office environment that is distinct, adaptable and mobile.
